

Contents

Introduction . . . . .	7
CHAPTER ONE
The paradigm of Economy 4.0 . . . . .	11
1.1. Theoretical frames of Circular Economy 4.0 . . . . .	11
1.2. Industry 4.0 in the theory of economics . . . . .	15
1.3. Creeping economy digitalization . . . . .	20
1.4. Enterprises digitalization: SMEs in Industry 4.0 paradigm . . . . .	24
CHAPTER TWO
Economy 5.0 – the new socio-oriented paradigm . . . . .	29
2.1. Human-oriented economy and more sustainable development . . . . .	32
2.2. Greater resilience of the economy to change . . . . .	37
CHAPTER THREE
E-commerce as a socio-economic phenomenon . . . . .	45
3.1. Drivers of e-commerce . . . . .	47
3.2. E-commerce models . . . . .	50
3.3. Present day changes in e-commerce. . . . .	54
3.3.1. E-commerce during pandemic . . . . .	54
3.3.2. Economic crises – new possibilities for e-commerce . . . . .	57
CHAPTER FOUR
Consumer as an active entity in Economy 4.0 . . . . .	63
4.1. E-commerce consumer: recipient or creator? . . . . .	63
4.2. Silver client – an active e-commerce participant . . . . .	68
4.3. Gender in e-commerce . . . . .	73

CHAPTER FIVE

E-commerce in SMEs: post-pandemic evidence . . . . . 77

5.1. Characterization of the region and the analyzed group. . . . . 77

5.2. Research prerequisites . . . . . 78

5.3. Statistical dependance analysis . . . . . 81

Summary . . . . . 101

References. . . . . 105

List of figures . . . . . 117

List of tables . . . . . 119